Script

Interviewer: So, what makes you feel nervous?

Katty: Let's see. Well, I really hate the idea of speaking in public.

Interviewer: Have you ever talked to a room full of people?

Katty: No, I haven't. In my job, I'm a TV reporter, I talk to a lot of people, but one at a time, not all together. No, I've never talked to a room full of people – and I never want to!

Interviewer: And what about interviewing people? Does that make you feel nervous?

Katty: No, not at all. Well, it depends on the people, I suppose. Some interviews can be difficult.

Interviewer: Have you ever met any famous people? Have you ever interviewed a film star or, I don't know, a President?

Katty: Yes, I have. I've interviewed famous people. I interviewed Robert de Niro once.

Interviewer: Did you feel nervous?

Katty: No, not at all. He was really easy to talk to.

Interviewer: So, is there anything else that makes you feel nervous?

Katty: Yes, I don't really like the idea of flying. Especially in small airplanes.

Interviewer: Have you ever flown in a small airplane?

Katty: Yes, I have. Over the Amazon. We were making a programme about the Amazon people. I was absolutely terrified! I never want to do that again.
