

OPA50. Mark answering

Script

Interviewer: So, what makes you feel nervous?

Mark: Let's see. Well, let's see. I've always hated spiders. They make me feel really nervous.

Interviewer: Have you ever held a spider in your hand?

Mark: No! Never! I don't think I could.

Interviewer: Why don't you like spiders?

Mark: I don't know. I just don't.

Interviewer: Is there anything else you don't like?

Mark: Well, let's see. Yes, I really don't like heights.

Interviewer: Have you ever stood on top of a tall building?

Mark: Yes, I have. And I was terrified. I couldn't look down. I just stood really close to the wall and closed my eyes. It was awful.

Interviewer: Anything else that makes you feel nervous?

Mark: Well, yes there is! You're going to think I'm a really nervous person, but I hate fast cars. They make me feel really bad.

Interviewer: Do you drive?

Mark: Yes, I do.

Interviewer: And have you ever driven a fast car? I mean, a sports car?

Mark: No, I haven't. One of my friends took me out in a Porsche once, but I've never driven a fast car myself. May be it's the driver that makes me nervous, and not the car.
